Journey to Japan

by T. Geo. Wood.

RAMBLINGS IN JAPAN

This is a country with many cultures running back for centuries, the more you see and feel of it the deeper it impresses itself upon your mind.

We start this week with a description of a genuine Tea Ceremony — not commercial, but part of real Japanese art and life. The Chanoyu is an esthetic cult, not directly connected with religion, but much practised by the wealthy and by the Zen sect of Buddhists, as training for mental composure. It has been a part of Japanese life since the 15th century.

Yesterday on the invitation of Mrs. Tatsuo Takaki, a small group was invited to the home of Mrs. Yukiko Ishikawa, at Tautsumikata, Ikegami Otaku, Tokyo, to take part in the Tea Ceremony. We travelled in two cars about 10 miles, and stopped before a heavy wooden gate set in a high stone wall fronting a one-way narrow street.

We were welcomed by the hostess and her daughter and led to the entrance to a beautiful Japanese garden, in their highest standard. Few flowers but many beautiful shrubs and trees, and made irregular by placed rocks, some nearly as large as a wagon, and worn into remarkable shapes and sizes. The garden paths were made of small rounded rocks, bordering on moss and curving around the garden. All of this was traversed by a small brook, and all of it done by design.

There were three parts to the tea house; 1-a waiting room of about 3 Tatami or floor mats. Here we removed shoes and bowed to all present. Then we moved forward to appreciate the wall hanging or kake-mono, the only decoration, except a small vase in the center of the room.

2-A wooden gong was struck to indicate eight guests. Then we were led to a new view of the garden, and sat on a bench for some time in contemplation. A deep metallic tone was sounded to show that the hostess was ready for guests. Each leaf that falls is picked up with tongs to clean the garden and paths.

We proceeded along the path, which cut off all the outer world—with stone dogs and lanterns, a combination of nature and art, typical of their gardens.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Bennett arrived home recently from a two weeks visit to Salt Lake City with relatives. They were accompanied by Uncle Joe Nilsson.

Miss Edith Woolley of Cardston visited with her mother, Mrs. Annie Woolley on Tuesday.

High School Report

Sadie Hawkins Week in the RHS turned out a real bang-up time. From attractive Daisy Maes to Mammy Yokums, the characters who walked the RHS-corridors, dressed as shaggy cavemen, bold pirates, toothless hags, ugly tramps and other strangely deformed creatures.

Friday, April 29, was the big day! Court was held in the high school gym at 3:15. All those who disobeyed Sadie Hawkins Day rules were to be brought to trial.

The scene opened with Judge Stone, (Lynn) and Chief Prosecutor Atwood (Don) presiding. The Assistance (tough men) were close by. The company first sang, "Beer, Beer for Old Raymond High," and court began.

First Suspect - Annie Gazler - accused of wearing lipstick. The jury found Annie guilty and she was sentenced accordingly. Fresh eggs were broken and mixed well into Annie's hair, then her case was dismissed.

David Galbraith - suspect no. 2 - accused of shaving. The assistance was needed to hold Coonskin Galbraith in the chair while a lady of the jury rubbed lipstick and eggs on his face. The case of Disobedient David was then over.

Dorothy Madill Wed Overseas

A wedding of interest to Raymond and district took place recently in St. Mary's Church, Caterham, Surrey, England, when Dorothy Evelyn Madill, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Stewart Madill, formerly of Raymond and now of Vancouver, B.C., exchanged marriage vows with Rodney Orland McLeod, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orland A. McLeod of Vancouver. The bride is a graduate nurse and the groom is studying music at the Royal Academy of Music in London, England.

The publishers of the weekly papers in Milk River, Don Fretts; Picture Butte, Sid Johnson; Coaldale Jake Loewen; and "Ye Ed" convened at the Recorder office Monday evening to discuss the possibility of installing an automatic machine for the production of local pictures. Representatives from two firms were present to give detailed information on the machines. No decision was reached but it is hoped that a machine will be installed in this district in the near future. La Maun Burton of Cardston was unable to attend the meeting.

Cooking School Wednesday, May 11

The United Church Building Committee is sponsoring a Moffat Cooking School in the United Church Recreation Hall on Wednesday, May 11th, at 8:00 p.m. Miss Collett, one of Canada's leading advisors on home economics, will conduct the demonstration. Miss Collett hails from Toronto and spent some time in dietetics before becoming associated with the Moffat cooking staff. All meals and foods will be cooked with gas and will be given away at the demonstration as prizes. Tickets are available at the door, or from any of the church members. Everyone welcome!

SUNDAY MOTHERS DAY

Mother's Day

In other years, on Mother's Day, My children thronged my knee With hand-made gifts, and flowers, To express their love for me.

Their young arms clasped around my neck,

Their soft lips pressed to mine— And I knew I held a treasure That was precious and divine.

This year I felt a little sad, And grieved, as mothers can, For that one son had left the nest And grown successful—now a man.

But when the mail came in today, My heart was touched, felt joy— My son, for all his strength and size, Had simply signed, "Your Little Boy"

And I smiled, to think how mothers With a love deemed near divine, To keep their loved ones with them Would fain hold back the sands of time. —Sally

Suds on Sunday

All through the week the radio programmes are punctuated with advertisements urging us to use various soaps and detergents. Although each is composed of similar basic ingredients, each claims to have some advantage over the others. One will wash even the dirtiest clothes clean, another is gentle to the daintiest nylons, yet another will wash white things whiter; leave bright things brighter. One has billows of white suds, but the next has no messy suds to mop up. They come in different colors, pink, blue, white; and with a fresh clean smell, or delicate perfume. To suit our many needs we can buy them in bars, flakes, granules, powder or liquid, and packaged in glass, tin, plastic or cardboard containers. When we buy a soap or a detergent, we hope it will help to make us, our clothes, and our homes clean.

Simple Rules

Dr. L. G. Robinson,
 Victoria, B.C.

Of all living things — plants, animals and human beings — only man tries to alter the order of nature — with results that are sometimes disastrous.

Nature endowed man with a sound body — barring the presence of abnormal conditions — a body equipped with mechanism required to maintain health and resist disease.

Nature also supplies man with a bountiful supply of wholesome natural food. That natural food contains all necessary substances for building strong, healthy bones and good, sound teeth, as well as other tissues of the body, so that the whole body may be well prepared for the struggle for existence.

Animals instinctively accept and use the food in the form in which it is found, so conforming to the plan of nature.

Man, in his superior wisdom, improves on nature in many ways; but in the selection, preparation and use of food, he often suffers grievously for his departure from nature's plan.

Whole grain, for instance, contains not only the pure white heart material favored for most flours; it also provides other substances that are necessary for our health. The shell of the grain, with all of its valuable material, is carefully sifted out. Previously, this was discarded, or used as animal food only.

Now, knowing how valuable these by-products are, we spend much time and effort readapting them for human use. But although we have learned how to take the grain apart, we are far from being as efficient as nature is in putting it together again. Something is lost in the process.

How much better it would be to take full advantage of nature's offerings by using food in the natural form wherever possible.

Specifically, such misuse of food may be, and often is, reflected obviously and unpleasantly as a major cause of the development of dental disease and decay.

In subsequent articles of this series, food habits and dental decay will be dealt with more fully. They will show how, by following simple health rules, dental decay, one of the most prevalent of human ills, can be almost completely controlled.

Wonder Paint Available Here

Introduction of a house paint that will not blister, heralded as the most revolutionary development in paint performance in modern times, has been announced by H. M. Cullis, President of Marshall - Wells Canadian Companies, Winnipeg. This new paint, to be marketed under the trade name of "Formula 5", is suitable for commercial and industrial uses, as well as private dwellings. In addition to being guaranteed blister-proof, it is also fume-proof, stain-proof, self-priming and can be used on wood, masonry and other common exterior surfaces.

Historically, painting can be traced back thousands of years. As early as 430 B.C., white lead was used by the Romans as a basic paint pigment. Since that time, the quality of house paint has been judged largely by the content of white lead.

Herein lies the secret of Formula 5's non-blistering qualities; the white lead and zinc oxide found in all present day house paint have been eliminated and a new ingredient which stops blistering has been introduced. The only solution the industry had previously been able to offer consumers was how to prevent or reduce the accumulation of moisture. Therefore, to home owners throughout the country, Formula 5 will come as welcome news because blistering caused by excessive moisture has been the most common of all complaints against paint.

Formula 5 is guaranteed blister-proof on new wood and is more blister-resistant on previously-painted surfaces. Also, rust and corrosion from nails, downspouts, gutters and other metal adornments on a building will not stain the new product. And sulfide fumes, traditionally a nuisance in areas around sewage plants, refineries, paper mills, canneries and similar industries will not cause discoloration.

Mr. Cullis said that during the past five years, more than 12,000 gallons of the paint have been sold under a different name and label in the United States. Through a field survey, it was found that the paint had been applied to homes, farm buildings and industrial buildings with consistently good results. In fact, not one single complaint was received. "This, in itself, is a unique experience in the paint industry," stated Mr. Cullis.

Formula 5 comes in white and 8 popular exterior colors and can be applied like any other paint. Two coats will last from five to seven years. It will retail through regular outlets and will be in the same price range as standard brands now available.

The paint is being introduced in Canada this year from the Head of the Lakes to the Pacific Coast.

Before the tea house proper no. 3 in the series was a small water bowl set in the ground to receive a trickling stream, at which we purified hands and mouth.

The head guest was Mrs. Soho Yamanoke, who teaches the ceremony. She bowed low, and entered through the low door, so small that each one must creep in, to indicate humility. We followed in proper rotation and were seated on our heels (more or less) with four Japanese ladies, also guests, in lovely dark kimonos and tabis. This room was about 4½ mats about 10 feet, square. All empaneled wood and bamboo. In the center was a brazier set in the floor.

The hostess came and each in turn bowed to her, then to the Kakemono, or the hanging scroll, to the chain suspended kettle, and to the incense burner.

She now built the fire of charcoal and incense, ignited and cleaned the fire space with a stiff feather. Our head guest or leader then examined it. The hostess used a small square piece of red silk, fukusa, as protection in handling all the utensils used.

Next a tray of Japanese sweets and napkin was passed to each guest, the leader first of course, and it was etiquette to take two of the little cakes which were delicious.

By now, the water was boiling, and the daughter and two other girls dressed in beautiful pink kimonos took over. A rough brown luster pottery drinking bowl was used first. The powdered light green tea was put in the bowl with a bamboo spoon water added for a paste then whipped with more boiling water, by hand and a bamboo whisk, in a snapping wrist action.

These movements were graceful and stylized and between each there were more bows of respect. Finally the bowl was presented with a bow to the leader, who drained the bitter draught with every evidence of appreciation, then passed the empty bowl for the admiration of the rest of us. This first bowl was over 300 years old, and supposedly designed by Rikyu, the teamaster of about 1600 A.D. He also designed the type of tea house we visited.

Each guest in turn was then presented with a beautiful bowl of powdered green tea prepared with the proper ceremony. These bowls are fairly large and in different china or pottery. They are treasures.

All, then, had partaken of the drink, and admired by examination each antique bowl, turning them up to see the maker's mark. The hostess passed to each the tea caddy, of lacquer with the royal chrysanthemum crest, and the small bamboo spoon, both with ancient lustre from over 300 years use. These small articles impressed us deeply, because they had been treasured for so long, through generation after generation. And so the quiet, simple ceremony concluded.

We replaced shoes, visited the garden, and were finally entertained in the best room of the house — a western style parlor filled with art objects, where the conversation carried on, giving the meanings of the three-hours ritual now finished.

After many bowed farewells, we finally left for the busy outside world — A splendid experience!

On Sunday last, we were at a Latter Day Saint District Servicemen's Conference — like a Stake Conference. There were around 200 present, and to all, it was a gospel treat. Over 20 Groups of service men and their families attended from all over Central Honshu — in fact some flew from Korea and one man came from Okinawa.

What a joyful reunion took place during the lunch session. They had arranged good musical numbers, the most impressive, a ladies sextette from Johnson Air Base who sang the Temple Song, "Time and Eternity."

The speakers were mainly the District leaders and those who soon leave for home. I was honored by the opportunity to make the closing talk.

These people here are superb in their love and appreciation and practice of our faith in a far away land.

Here is a little verse that came to my mind about 5:30 a.m. this morning. Robbie is our noisy alarm clock Grandson—

NOISY PERSHING HEIGHTS
(Morning in Tokyo)

Daylight dawns — without the sun
Robbie wakes — loud songs are sung

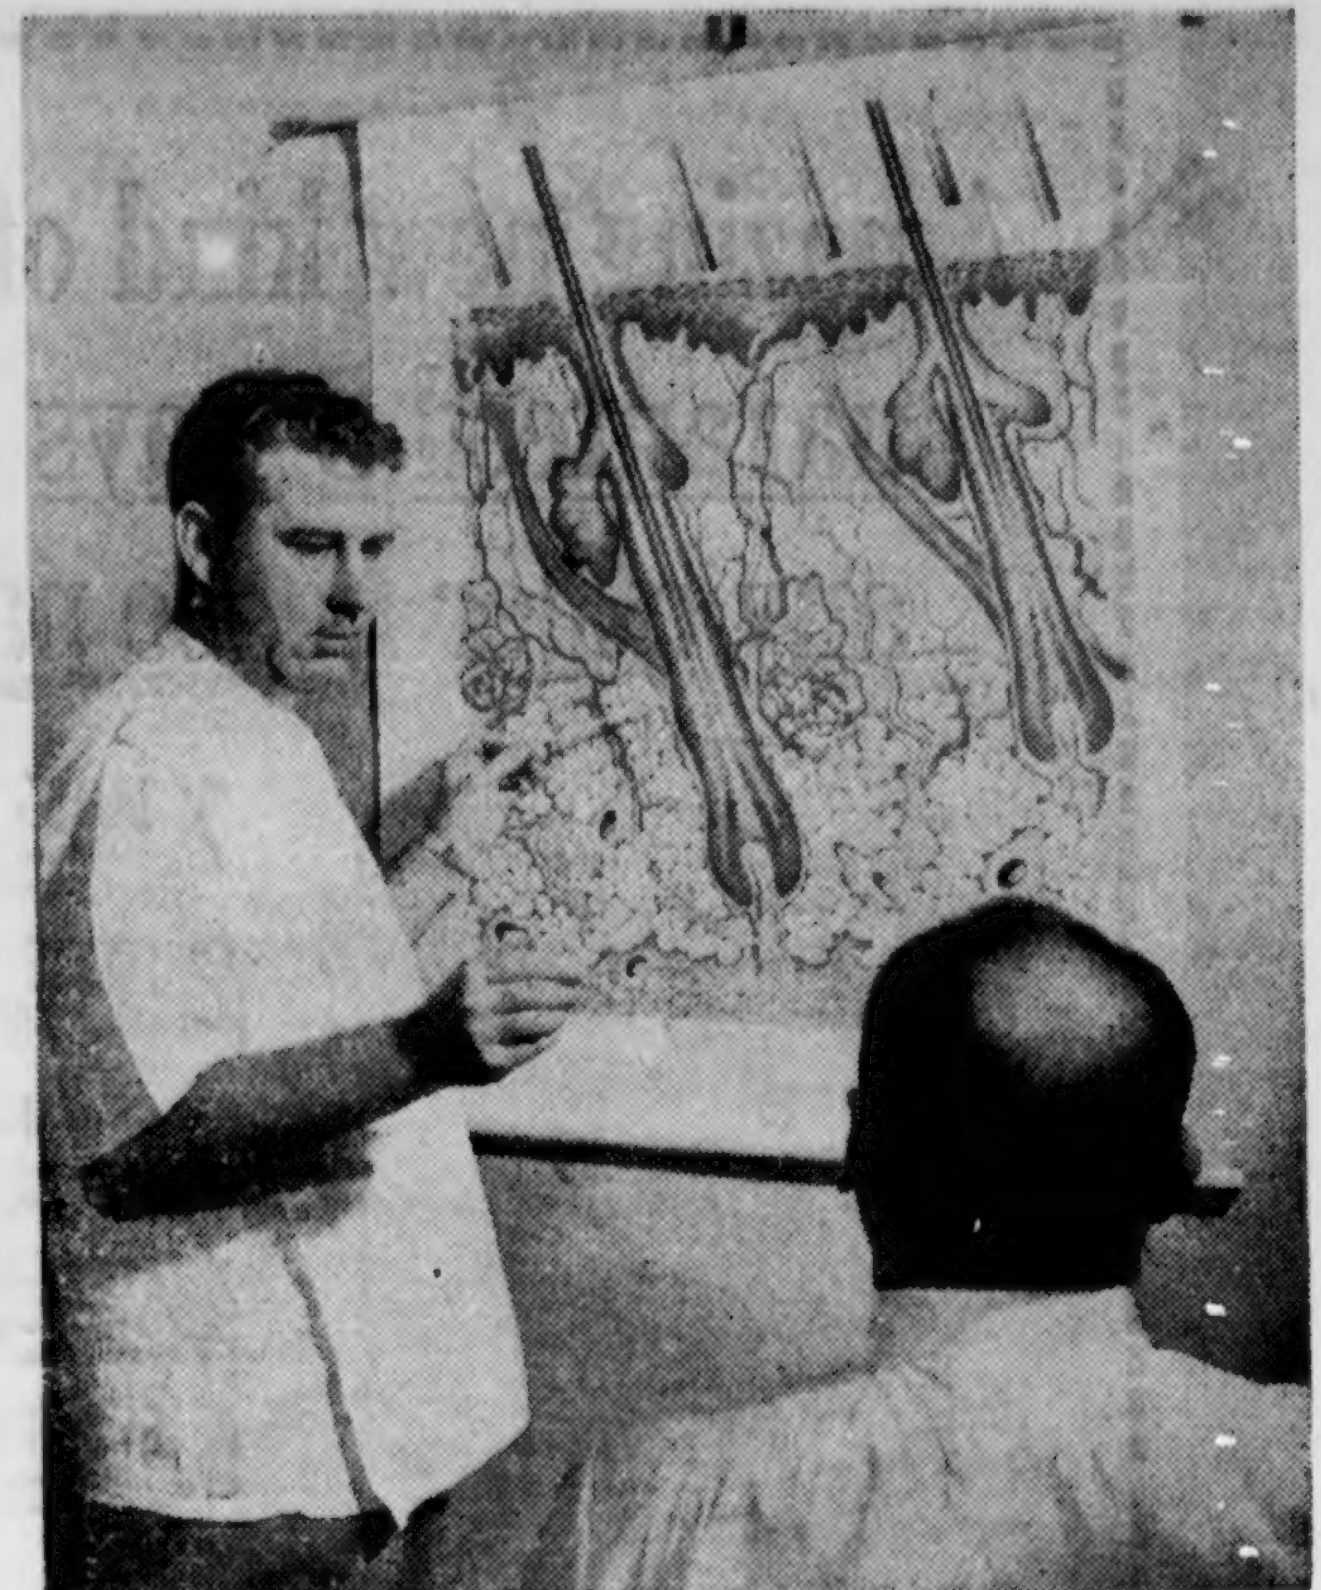

Crows caw caw — in sequence of eight

Autos start — Colonel is late
Trains whistle — for station gate

Copters whirring—message of fate
Feet running — then soldiers wait

Bugles blow — reveille rung
Sleepily now—days full begun.

M. D. Jarell, eminent Trichologist, demonstrates causes of baldness and how it can be prevented.

How To Have Hair For A Lifetime To Be Demonstrated Here By Famous Trichologist Offers Written Guarantee

An exclusive interview by Ward Allen

LONDON, ONTARIO (Special)—M. D. Jarell, Director of Jarell Hair Experts of Canada exploded the "myth of baldness" today in an exclusive interview.

"Baldness is unnecessary, costly, and a plague to mankind," says Jarell. "No man need be bald. No man need suffer the stigma of premature old age that is forced upon him because he is losing his hair. The Jarell method of hair and scalp treatment can prevent baldness—can turn colorless fuzz into healthy, growing hair—can make you look youthful again."

Demonstration To Be Held In Raymond

This revolutionary method of home treatment for the hair and scalp will be demonstrated in Raymond, Alberta, Wednesday, May 18 ONLY, at the Raymond Hotel. Trichologist R. Cooley will conduct the private, individual interviews from 12 noon until 9:00 p.m. on Wednesday ONLY. There is no cost or obligation, and you need no appointment.

Reason For Baldness

"There is always a reason for baldness," continued this nationally known authority. "Hair cannot grow through a scalp that is infected with dandruff, excessive oiliness or extreme dryness. A scalp that has never been exercised cannot be expected to produce healthy hair." Men, and yes, women too, walk the streets today, completely devoid of nature's greatest ornament—hair. Simply because they were not taught the basic rules of scalp and hair hygiene while they were growing up. "The simple answer," emphasized this expert, "is that children should be taught the same simple basic rules of hair and scalp hygiene that they are taught for the proper care of their teeth. If this were the case, baldness would be a rarity today!"

Heredity Not Involved

Trichologist Jarell dodged no issues. He quickly took up the most widely spread theory of baldness—heredity. "Mankind's unrealistic belief that baldness is hereditary stems from a misinterpretation of the theory of genetics. Theory does not state that any person must be bald because baldness exists in the family. What it does say, is that in some families, a tendency exists towards an undernourished scalp." The purpose of Jarell Hair and Scalp Experts is to teach the methods of strengthening the weak scalp and nourishing it to a healthy, vigorous condition. "A healthy scalp will grow hair, if it is not already completely bald," assures Jarell.

Is There Hope For The Completely Bald?

In his travels throughout the United States and Canada, Jarell has collected hundreds of testimonies of his ability to develop weak fuzz into healthy, mature hair. All of his clients have started with a private examination, hair and scalp analysis, and a diagnosis of the disorder. Jarell is quick, however, to tell a hopeless case that he cannot be helped. "We strongly advise," says Jarell, "that no person who is completely bald hold any hope whatsoever of regrowing hair. If there is any fuzz at all, we can restore a healthy scalp condition and the hair will grow normally again as nature intended."

Offers A Guarantee

"Jarell Hair Experts of Canada offer a guarantee to any client who enrolls for treatment. If he or she is not completely delighted at the end of 30 days, the money invested will be graciously refunded," pledged Jarell. "We must have satisfied clients. We must regrow hair. After all, it is our best advertisement."

Is Your Hair Healthy?

If you have a scalp disorder, or if you are worried about your hair, call Trichologist R. Cooley, at the Raymond Hotel in Raymond, Alberta, Wednesday, ONLY from 12 noon to 9:00 p.m. The public is invited. The examinations are private and open to men and women. You do not need an appointment, and you will not be embarrassed or obligated in any way.

Let's Eat

BY
IDA BAILEY ALLEN

"It is nice for the ladies to learn a few of the words we use in French cooking, madame," remarked the chef. "These words are used in all good cuisines all over the world. So with your permission, I would like to explain several that appear in a menu I have ventured to compose. And here it is:

Tomorrow's Dinner

Julienne Vegetable—Cheese Salad
Rechauffee of Lamb and Cabbage
Compote of Winter Fruits

Coffee Tea Milk

"The first French word that appears is 'julienne.' It means to cut any food in little match-like strips. The best way to do this is to put several slices or pieces of the food together, hold them firmly on a cutting board, and shred or slice them with a very sharp knife. They are named 'julienne' after the lady who invented them."

Julienne Vegetable—Cheese Salad

Cut enough chilled crisp celery and tender raw carrot into julennes to make ½ cup each; cut ½ cup julennes of Swiss cheese; shred enough crisp lettuce to make 2½ cups; and combine with the julennes. Toss with ½ cup French dressing (not sweet). Serve at once.

"Next we have 'rechauffee.' That means to reheat, and is applied to the use of leftovers or oddsends of any savory food—roast lamb, par example."

Rechauffee of Lamb and Cabbage

In a 2-quart saucepan fry 2 ounces salt pork cut in small dices. When most of the fat has cooked out and the pork is lightly browned, remove and keep it warm. Add 2½ tablespoons enriched flour; cook and stir until browned. Then pour in 2 cups boiling water. Add 1 chopped medium sized peeled onion, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon monosodium glutamate and a "bouquet garni." Then add 2½ cups roast lamb diced or coarse-chopped. Wash and add a 1-lb. green cabbage cut in eighths. Cover and simmer 35 minutes. Arrange "croutes" in a large deep platter; top with the lamb and cabbage mixture.

Crisp Bread Slices

"Croutes" means crusts; in this case they are whole slices of French bread cut ½ inch thick, the crusts removed, and baked very slowly at a low heat until very crisp. Croutes are also very good as a basis for any meat dish with plenty of gravy.

"The last French word in this menu you have composed is 'compote,' chef."

"Which means stewed fruit of any kind—cooked in pieces. The syrup is then boiled down until thick and rich. The fruit compotes are served very cold in shallow sauce dishes. Often two or three kinds of stewed fruits are used, always of contrasting colors, such as sliced apple, sections of tangerines and prunes, making a pretty picture."

Bouquet Garni From the Chef

A "bouquet garni" literally means a combination or bouquet of garnishes or herbs, and may consist of a sprig each of parsley, leek, thyme, celery leaves and a bay leaf, the whole tied together so it can be lifted from a dish when it is done.

I've been busy most of this week conducting a sewing clinic so that I'm going to chat away to you about sewing a fine seam for your new spring wardrobe — for yourself or the family.

There are such beautiful materials in the shops that it's a fair delight to acquire some. You'll be wise if you buy by label with assurance that your garment will come through all the season's tubbings fresh and gay. Naturally the various finishes have their appeal too. Of these the crease resistant has good use for your hot weather clothing and for your travel wardrobe.

When you go to the pattern counter by all means know your bust measure or your waist measure, depending on whether you are buying a dress, blouse or coat pattern or a skirt or slack pattern. Have the clerk measure you if you forgot to do so before you left home, rather than use an incorrect sized pattern.

When it comes to selecting a pattern for junior buy by chest or waist measurement rather than age. Some children grow like the sturdy garden flower, while others are the delicate hot house bloom. Age is no indication of size.

Shrink woollen and washable cotton fabrics before cutting, so that the fit will be permanent. Then check the material to see that the grain of the fabric is true. You can do this by laying the material on a rectangular table. If the fabric does not lie so that all four corners are at right angles, straighten the grain by stretching firmly but gently on the true bias.

In putting your garment together, complete each part — as the collar, belt and shoulder pads, then the front and back of the bodice, next the skirt. Join the skirt to the bodice and try the garment on making any necessary alterations. Stitch side seams. Pressing the seams as you make each and before you make the next seam is a must if you would have a professional piece of work.

When you fit the garment the only parts of the garment which are not sewed and pressed are the side seams the waistband seams and the seams at the armpits. You should baste these. Always fit the dress right side out and over the undergarments to be worn. Do not overfit, a mistake frequently made by the home sewer. Close-fitting garments emphasize figure faults and may not be as attractive when you are walking as when you are standing still.

A good sewer follows the instructions for her particular pattern, uses quickly made seam finishes but ones that are suitable for the material and the wear to be given the garment. A good seamstress handles her material as deftly as she handles her needle.

Tourist Season
May Set Record

Across Canada, according to a Canadian Press survey, emphasis is being placed on the Canadian tourist visiting other parts of Canada.

In Alberta, bureau officials say they have received more than 7,600 inquiries about tourist possibilities in the province, compared with about 6,400 at this time last year.

Every city, town and community in the Province will have special Jubilee Celebrations for the people at home as well as our tourist friends. Treat your visitors royally so that they will always remember Alberta's Golden Jubilee.

GOLDEN JUBILEE

Be ready for more visitors this year than ever before. Encourage them to stay longer in your community. Be sure roadside services are adequate . . . that accommodations and meals are up to the required standards. See to it that our hometown surroundings are bright and attractive. Above all, be helpful and friendly. COURTESY PAYS!

Tourist Service Week

This week, May 1-7, is dedicated to the improvement of all services for those who holiday in our Province. Everyone can play a part in helping to build a valued tourist industry.

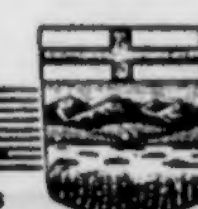

Tourists Pay Their Way

Tourists spend money on things the average person doesn't need . . . They don't wait for bargain sales . . . They buy what they want for cash, with money earned elsewhere, thus adding to the capital wealth of your community.

Everyone Benefits

Food producers, the farmers and processors . . . manufacturers . . . retailers . . . hotels . . . motels . . . service stations . . . transportation companies . . . every dispenser of goods and services . . . all benefit from the tourist industry.

SCHOOL REPORT

Oh! Here is a boy who didn't do anything he should have! Ted King shaved! Ted King didn't dress up! Costly Dahl testified against Done-For King and the judge sentenced him. The Assistance blindfolded Ted and dumped him bodily into a barrel of water.

Suddenly the tables were turned. Lynn Stone (Judge) was accused of shaving and found guilty by his disloyal jury. A very smelly garlic substance was rubbed into Judgy's hair and he headed for the washroom.

Tom Hall - accused of not dressing up, combing his hair and not washing Punishment - a thorough egg and mud plaster.

Bryan Gough was lucky - he was found not guilty!

Jess Gibb wanted to get married and the chief prosecutor (with Miss Weinheimer's consent) arranged for a 25¢ wedding at the dance that night.

Wes Hedenstrom did not dress up and he did shave! The jury felt cruel and had Wes blindfolded and lain on the floor. The willing assistance poured the bucket of water down into his pant leg. Wet, wet, Wes.

The teachers then judged costumes and gave Necia Holt the prize for her Daisy Mae costume and Bull-moose McClain (Oogle) the man's prize.

Then the students roared through the Public School before the amazed little children. The band led the group uptown where the boys and girls lined up for the big race. You should've seen those boys run! (Real Dogpatch style) The girl catching a man could take him to the dance and maybe before Marryin' Sam.

The dance turned out a success, and the wild, weird, wonderful week drew to a close.

Tourist Service Week

Tourist Service Week (May 1-7, 1955) is Canada's traditional spring campaign stressing the needs and desires of all who visit and travel in our country. Since 1946 Tourist Service Week has provided a recurring occasion for special attention to tourist trade problems by all appropriate provincial, regional and municipal authorities, local businessmen's associations, shops, restaurants, hotels, motels, resorts, service clubs, the schools, the press, radio and TV.

While Tourist Service Week is only one week in the year, its message to Canadians is something for them to act on every week the year round — to enhance in every possible way the reputation of their own communities and of all Canada as hosts to all visitors.

The widespread benefits of a healthy "Visitor Industry" are felt first at the local level where visitors spend money. One of the aims of Tourist Service Week is to correct the mistaken idea that proceeds of tourist trade are shared only by those in certain fields of activity such as accommodation and transportation. The fact is, everybody benefits. Whatever you happen to do for a living — whether you work in industry, farming, trade or some other business or profession, — you can be sure that some part of your income originally came from VISITORS to your community or your country.

OBJECTIVES OF TOURIST SERVICE WEEK

1. Encourage needed improvements and highest standards of cleanliness, attractiveness, efficiency and courtesy in all services used by visitors including:
 - rail, air, water and road transportation.
 - stores, service stations, restaurants and other retail outlets.
 - all types of accommodation including hotels, motels, resorts, camps.
 - public services such as border authorities, information booths, washrooms, etc.
2. Promote development of tourist attractions such as historic sites, community parks, festivals, pageants and other special events that will make your area a more interesting place to visit.
3. Talk up the idea of travel in Canada at all appropriate business, community or social gatherings and especially wherever you meet officials, teachers, press, radio or TV people and others who influence opinions.
4. Support community tourist promotion organizations whose task it is to attract visitors to your area and to assist them after they have come.
5. Feature distinctive local foods, handicrafts, etc. in all places frequented by visitors to your community.
6. Practise conservation of all recreational resources, including water, forests, wildlife and scenic attractions.
7. Be at all times courteous, co-operative and helpful to travellers and visitors; it is in everyone's best interest; to make visitors want to stay longer, want to come back again and want to recommend the places they have visited to others.

On Sunday the programmes are aimed at cleansing our souls, helping us to lead such good lives that we shall be sure to reach the Kingdom of Heaven. The churches do not advertise, but in the way they prepare a spiritual play for broadcasting, the life they choose to dramatize, the sermon they give, the lesson they teach, the inspiration of the talks, they show how they place a different emphasis on the basic ingredients of faith, hope, love and charity.

Some people, like those who prefer pure soap for cleaning, believe they will attain their goal if they obey the ten commandments. Others, like those who prefer the new detergents, put their faith in the gospels of Christ.

Some sects are like the pink detergents, they stress the blood of Christ shed to wash us free from sin. Others, like the blue varieties, believe in the literal truth of the recorded Gospels. Those that feel the need of gorgeous Cathedrals, incense, music and magnificently attired clergy to assist their devotions are like the soaps with lots of suds; while those that go about quietly spreading the love of God and spirit of Christ to all they meet are like the wetting agents which make a drop of water spread to a thin film. Those denominations which specialize in saving souls from skid row, are like the suds which clean the dirtiest clothes.

No soap will clean as long as it remains in a box on the shelf. It is usually up to a Mother to use on the family wash; to clean the house; and to teach her children to use plenty of soap and water to clean themselves. So, too, religion should not be left in the churches. It must be brought into the home and community, and it is often up to Mother to listen to her children's prayers, to explain things they have not understood in church. As the results of using soap, show in cleaner, brighter things; so will the results of frequent prayer, show in purer, happier lives, clean speech, the soft answer to angry words. Mother can be proud, if her family is both physically and spiritually clean.
